Storm grows off coastline

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Tropical Storm Delia headed for Texas' upper Gulf Coast today, threatening to hit the coastline around Port Arthur by late afternoon or early evening.

"She's too close to shore to alter course too drastically," said a spokesman in the National Weather Service office here.

The spokesman said Delia, with 65-70 mile an hour winds whipping around a poorly organized center, would likely go ashore between Port Arthur and High Island, a small community west of Port Arthur, "around 5, 6 or 7 o'clock tonight."

Earlier in the day Delia had assumed a northerly course which would have meant a beachhead somewhere near Lake Charles, La.

The noon EDT advisory posted by the National Weather Service at New Orleans located Delia at 28.2 north latitude and 93.6 west longitude, or about 100 miles southeast of Galveston, moving north-northwest at 10 to 12 miles an hour.

With the storm only 100 miles at sea, it appeared unlikely it would have time to strengthen dramatically or change direction before it shoved across the coastline, weather officials said.

The storm teased residents in both southwest Louisiana and southeast Texas as it turned first one way and then the other.

The advisory said six-foot tides and rains of up to 10 inches could be expected in the Sabine River area between the two states as the storm moved inland.

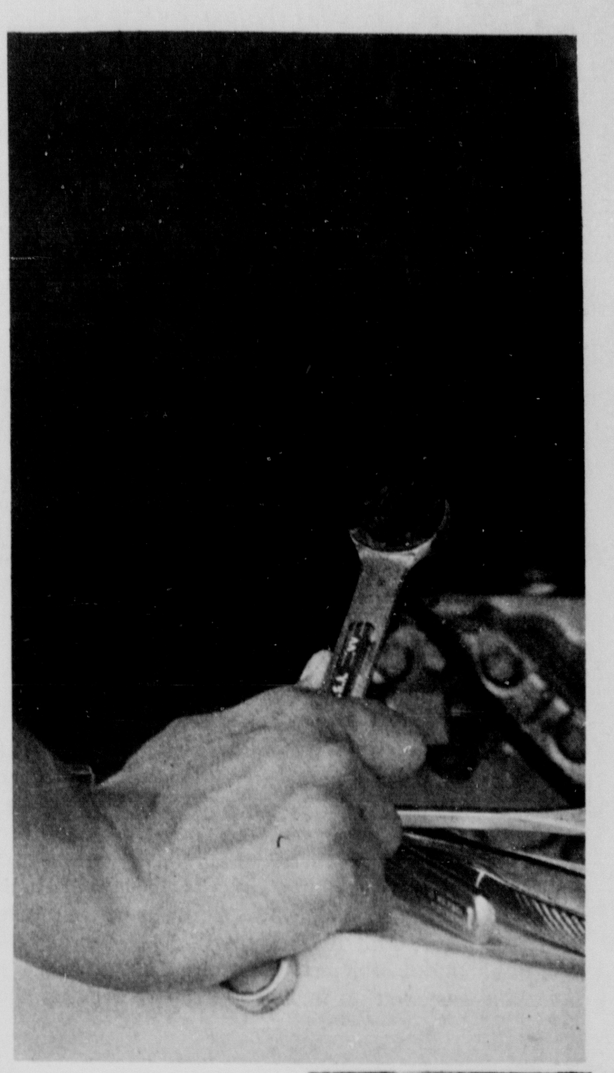

The upper Texas coast area began evacuations and preparations for the storm Monday afternoon when it turned abruptly from the Louisiana coast and pointed toward the Galveston-Freeport area.

Officials evacuated the Sabine Pass area near the Louisiana line and opened schools and other public buildings as shelters.

Other evacuations were from Bolivar Peninsula, adjacent to Galveston Bay, and from the Brazosport area beaches around Freeport and vicinity.

Offices to collocate

Selective Service offices of Mississippi, Stoddard, Scott and New Madrid counties will be collocated later this week to an area office in Building D of Kingsway Plaza Mall Shopping Center in Sikeston.

Mrs. Gladys Nebel of Benton will be executive secretary of Selective Service Area Office No. 25 and Mrs. Clara St. Mary of New Madrid will be the local board technician. The office should open by Thursday or Friday, according to Mrs. Nebel.

Bob Merrick, state director of Selective Service, announced that the area office will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. He added that only local board records were being moved and that present board members would continue to act in that capacity.

Collocation is a plan under which Selective Service will operate on a standby basis, continuing to register and classify registrants and maintain a pool of young men to be examined and inducted in time of national emergency. All local boards in Missouri are being collocated to area offices.

Mrs. Nebel explained that boards are being collocated because the fiscal budget was drastically reduced and because there will be no more induction calls except in an emergency.

Selective Service law still requires young men to register within a period beginning 30 days before their 18th birthday and ending 30 days after, Merrick said. To eliminate the need for young men to travel to Sikeston, volunteer registrars are being appointed in local schools.

Urban planning on agenda

The City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the City Administrative Building.

Discussions will include the sale of the country club and an urban planning contract with Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and the Missouri Department of Community Affairs for a comprehensive plan review.

The council will consider laying sewer and water lines and constructing Russell Street.

Thief takes toilet seat from home

An automobile, some money, and a toilet seat were among the items reported stolen over the Labor Day weekend.

A 1966 Ford belonging to Paul Burns of Kennett Square, Pa., was reported stolen sometime Saturday from South New Madrid Street where it was parked next to the Dunn Hotel.

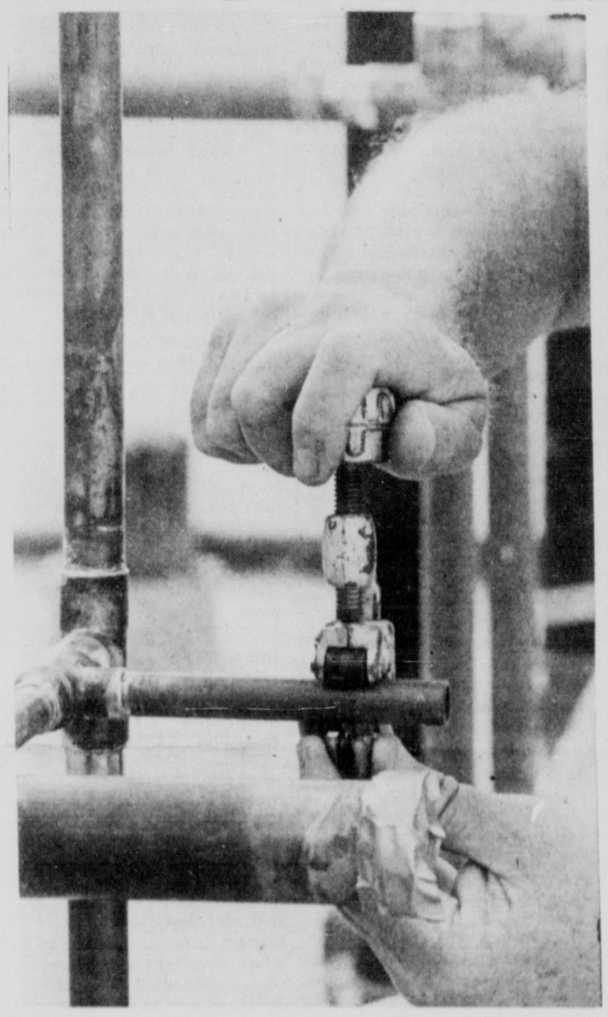

Burns told police that a wallet containing $500 was also in the car.

Berry Seymour, 117 Pin Oak, a driver with City Cab, told police that a passenger in his cab refused to pay his fare about 8 p.m. Sunday and then took $21 from Seymour's shirt pocket and fled. The incident occurred on Luther Street, police said.

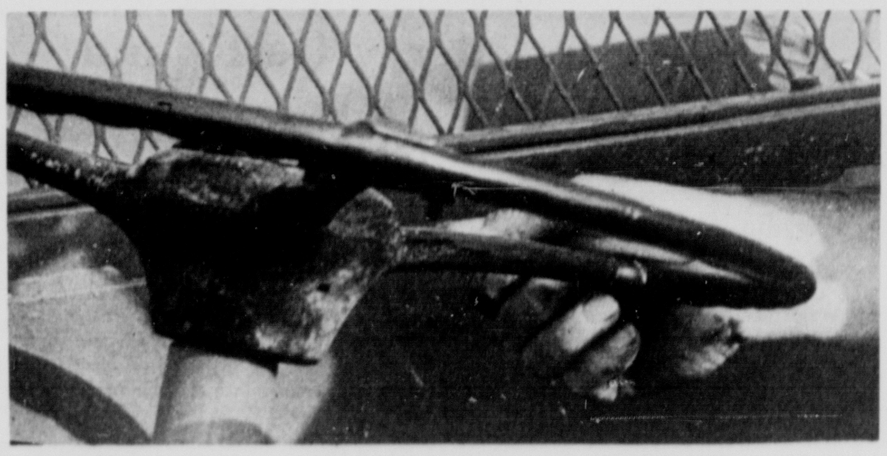

A toilet seat was taken from a bathroom in a house at 122 North St. sometime between Friday and Monday. Nothing else was taken. The front door was pried open, according to police. The house was a rental unit owned by Ben Moore, 105 E. Commercial, Charleston.

Donnie Esperman, 168 Presnell Drive, told police that someone had taken an eight- track tape player from his car while it was parked at his house. The tape player was valued at $59. The theft occurred sometime between Aug. 20 and Aug. 31.

Mary Harris, 600 Pine, Apt. B- 5, told police someone broke into her house sometime Monday night and took a radio, lighter, and two packs of cigarettes. Entrance was gained by forcing open the door.

Officials probe arson attempt

The State Fire Marshal's office and the State Division of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms are being asked to join city police in investigating the second attempted arson in the city within a month.

An incendiary device ignited on the roof of McDonald Hamburger restaurant about 12:40 a.m. Monday. Damage to the building was minor and the fire was quickly extinguished by firemen.

The incendiary device was rigged time bomb fashion with a six or nine volt battery and a timing device. It was placed under an air-conditioning duct on the roof of the building. The mechanism has been recovered by police.

The restaurant was still under construction and was empty.

On Aug. 14 a time bomb was set off at the south side of the Big K store on South Kingshighway. The bomb was placed by a liquid gas line that led into the building from a 23,500 gallon tank. The tank was empty and no fire resulted from the explosion.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer said he thought the two attempts were made by the same person.

Linnemeyer called the man an amateur and said he hoped he was caught before he hurt someone or killed himself. He added that the man was probably just a fire bug looking for excitement.

He's trying to make it look like a union problem, Linnemeyer said, but it's not.

Firemen were called to two other fires. At 6:07 p.m. an electrical wire shorted in an apartment occupied by Bonnie Greer, 106 W. Center St. There was no damage.

At 9:35 p.m. a rental truck backfired and caught fire in the Holiday Inn parking lot. The fire was quickly extinguished and caused little damage. The truck was being driven from New Orleans, La. to Columbia by Russell Bevil of New Orleans.

Firebomb device

Firemen examine a timing mechanism from the incendiary device which ignited on the roof of McDonald's Hamburger restaurant Monday morning. The fire did minor damage and was quickly extinguished. The State Fire Marshal's office and the State Division of Alcohol, Tobacco and Fire Arms, will help city police in the investigation.

12 hurt in holiday traffic accidents

Twelve persons were injured in area traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend, according to the highway patrol.

Alvin Hicks, 28, of Kennett was seriously injured at 8:30 p.m. Saturday four miles south of Sikeston on Interstate 55 when his vehicle slammed into the rear of a tractor- trailer truck driven by Jerry Williams, 24, of Chunky, Miss.

Hicks was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment of severe cuts and internal injuries.

At 3:30 a.m. Sunday a father and son were injured when the car in which they were riding ran off the road at the Kewanee exit of I-55.

Bob Arnold, 45, of St. Louis apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car and ran off the road, according to the patrol. He suffered a broken left ankle and cuts on the chin and elbow. His 18- year- old son, Clarence, suffered cuts on the arm and multiple bruises. They were also treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Two persons were injured in a two- car accident at 11:50 p.m. Sunday on Highway 61 in Steele when an eastbound car driven by Linda Mall of Independence, Ky., pulled into the path of a car driven by Manuel Placencia of East Chicago, Ind.

A passenger in the Mall car, Linda Lovelace, 15, of Independence, Ky., received an injured hip. Placencia received a back injury. Both were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

At 12:20 p.m. Sunday, a rural Poplar Bluff couple was injured in a one- car accident when their automobile ran off Route T one and a half miles west of Puxico and hit a ditch embankment.

John Davidson, 51, of Poplar Bluff Route Six was treated for bruises on the face and body at Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff. His wife Faye was treated for cuts on the chin and internal injuries.

An Arkansas woman was injured at 6:30 p.m. Sunday one mile south of New Madrid on I-55 when the car in which she was riding ran off the road and overturned.

Injured was Juanita Shulths, 40, of Jonesboro, who suffered a neck injury. She was a passenger in a car driven by Dorothy Chamberlain of LaFeria, Tex.

According to the patrol, a passing tractor- trailer truck apparently caused the Chamberlain woman to lose control. Once off the road, the car over turned.

A 19- year- old Illinois youth was seriously injured at 11:40 p.m. Monday when the car he was driving was struck in the side as he pulled onto I-55 from the shoulder 10 miles south of Sikeston.

Terry Synder of Trenton, Ill., was taken to the Sikeston hospital for treatment of a fractured

AGNEW IS RIGHT

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has a right to be outraged by what he has accurately termed the "vicious and illegal practice" of individuals within the U.S. Department of Justice in Baltimore who are maliciously "leaking" secret information concerning alleged criminal activity to the public.

Every American has reason to be equally alarmed. If such malicious practice is allowed to continue, then no one in this Republic is safe. All can be accused by nameless and faceless informers, without the right of trial by jury, without the right to be heard, without the protection of law. There is no defense against that kind of government. You can be destroyed; your reputation,your business, your job, your security, your future; all can be wiped out. The crimes now being committed by the faceless informers within the office of the U. S. Attorney George Beall far exceeds the enormity of any crime committed by the Watergate telephone tappers.

Has the United States Attorney joined in a conspiracy with the enemies of the present Administration in Washington to destroy both the President and the Vice President? What reward has been promised or given by enemies of the Administration? Are these unfair and unfounded implications? No less unfair than the accusations which are at this moment being leaked from the office of the U. S. Attorney. And if U. S. Atty. Beall thinks that such implications and accusations are unkind, he has a quick and easy way to remedy the situation; stop the leaks.

CLOTHES MAKE THE STUDENT

School administrators around the country are still trying to arrive at an accomodation with the now generation which strikes a balance between absolute individual freedom in the matter of personal dress and some sort of standards, while permitting everyone concerned to get on with the business of teaching and learning.

One midwestern school has come up with a dress code which, it hopes, will achieve that end. At the Crestwood High School in Mantua, Ohio, the following will be frowned upon during the coming school year:

Undershirts (with nothing over them), tank tops (with nothing under them, sweatshirts or jackets with names of gangs or pictures, shorts, sandals without socks and cleated shoes.

For girls, heavy cosmetics, low-cut dresses, sheer blouses or midriff tops and high heels are banned.

Boys must be clean-shaven with sideburns not to extend beyond the jawbone. Jeans and long hair will be permitted but must be kept neat and clean, and shirts must be buttoned and tucked in at all times.

It's pretty rough, but maybe the kids will be able to live with it.

ABOUT WHAT THEY COST
—ESPECIALLY FUTURES

You're here today (and able to read this page) because some ancestor of yours worked hard enough to give you an education.

You and we are alive and free because tens of thousands of young men fought and died when we were Colonies,and in Europe, the Pacific, Asia.

We enjoy more comforts and luxuries than any other people on earth because countless people did without things, saved and risked their savings in business which grew (because they gave value) into this wonderful American productive system.

Our life today is what others in our past paid for — paid by hard work and thrift and sacrifice. Isn't it our turn now?

'TOO MANY DUMB JOBS'

As the nation pauses for the annual holiday that is dedicated to its workers, it is traditional to review labor's record in the last year and to speculate about labor's role in the nation's politics and economics.

All too often such reviews and outlooks tend to portray labor as a stereotype which popularly now is depicted as the Archie Bunker of America. It is no longer a fair basis on which to regard labor.

The nation's tremendous working force has been undergoing subtle but important changes in recent years.

In the last generation it was customary for the young worker to look to his father and ask, "If you're so darn smart, why aren't you rich?" and then go about getting the wages which made it possible for him to buy a split-level suburban home, at least two automobiles and maybe a boat and all the other status items that indicated success. But a new generation of workers has come into the labor force recently which looks to its fathers and asks, "If you're so darn rich, why aren't you happy?"

And it is this new breed of workers which is looking about the factories, stores and offices seeking ways to make work not only a means to accumulation of goods and status symbols but also a satisfying way of living.

During this last year this group became more active and vocal. An indication of their growing discontent was the 22-day strike last March by the automobile workers at the Lordstown, Ohio, plant of General Motors, not for higher wages but as a protest against the speeded-up automation of the factory that depersonalized labor even more than the traditional assembly line.

Management has begun to recognize these "blue collar blues" as a significant impediment to productivity in businesses.

"We've created too many dumb jobs, and there are not enough dump people to fill them," Paul F. Maine, a job design consultant for TRW Corp., told the Society of Automotive Engineers annual conference in Detroit last January.

Workers still are interested in working,but they want their work to have some meaning. Craftsmanship is again taking on significance, as can be demonstrated by the growing popularity of home hobbies which give vent to this desire. People want to feel they have mastered something, not been just a part of a machine. They want their efforts measured in quality of the product and not just the quanitity of it.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson took note of this in a speech last February to the White House Conference on the Industrial World Ahead which was attended by an estimated 1,500 businessmen, industrialists, government officials and educators.

"I question those who contend the work ethic is no longer strong in America," Hodgson said. "It remains strong. But its motivational underpinning is changing. In a nation increasingly dedicated to improving its quality oflife, self- realization through useful and interesting work becomes a creditable goal."

Former Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz put it another way.

"We are going to have to think about not just a 'work ethic,' but what life is all about ... We should look for a 'life ethic' that gives work more meaning," he said.

This changing attitude of workers should not frighten management. Rather it should stimulate it to take advantage of the fact that these workers are resisting regimentation and seeking individualism. A few instances in which management already has recognized this change have demonstrated that when workers are taken into the difficult process of developing work procedures and organization they can and do find ways of not only motivating people but also increasing their efficiency.

In its zeal to find machines that will increase output, business has tended to overlook the greatest potential source of productivity — the people it employs. Prof. Alva F. Kindell of the Harvard Business School has found that industry frequently uses only 30 to 40 per cent of the average worker's capabilities. It is this failure to recognize the knowledge and capability of workers which frequently alienates them from their employers and their work.

As the song goes, "The times they are achanging," and labor and management are changing with the times.

TEST FOR GOOD
VISION URGED FOR VACATIONERS

The American Optometric Association recommends that vacationists go in for an 'eye check' when the car goes for a safety check before leaving for vacation.

Stating that about 90 per cent of driving decisions are based on what you see, the Association reminds us that you should be able to see effectively ahead, to the sides and in the rear view mirror and your depth perception should enable you to judge distances between your car and other cars or objects.

IT'S ABOUT TIME!

Like so many citizens of this wonderful land, I began to appreciate our country more fully when I realized our heritage of Truth and Freedom had fallen into grave danger. Young people will be instrumental in the battle to save Freedom and our Republic. Recently, a plan was initiated in Texas that should accomplish much towards helping the youth to win that battle.

State Representative Jim Kaster of El Paso spearheaded a bill through the Legislature providing for all high schools to set up and teach a course on the personal enterprise, profit-motive system during the 1974- 1975 school year. Representative Kaster is to be commended for his efforts on this legislation. Programs such as this are highly constructive methods for educating young people to the ideas which form the foundation of our great Republic.

High school instruction in the personal enterprise profit-motive system should be instituted nationwide as soon as possible. Education designed to present the Pro- Freedomist point of view is urgently needed to counteract the Marxist intellectual trend which has been infiltrating academic circles for more than half a century. The youth of this country have never really heard the truth about either Marxism or Freedom.

Every tyrant in history has sought to subvert and control young people in order to impose their tyrannies. We must move swiftly to expose the fallacy of the collectivist notions confronting the youth of Republic USA. There is no more effective way than providing instruction in the operations of the personal enterprise, profit- motive system. People interested in helping to preserve Republic USA should encourage representatives of every state legislature to adopt similar courses of study in their own school systems. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Man of Steel:
Next Phase Should Be Phase Out Urges Leader of the 'Management Movement'

NEW YORK--- My good friend Roger Blough, for a long time the man who led the United States Steel Corp., would chuckle and reject me if he heard me call him a sort of union leader. He is, in effect, for he has brought together America's top- strata business executives--- the very top. He has organized them.

They meet publicly. They discuss the critical issues of the moment. They're almost doing naturally what unions do. Mr. Blough has retired from U. S. Steel--- but is as active now as ever before. Since he has met with so many of his peers in industry, and still does, and has bargained with some of the top labor leaders as well, I asked him what he thought of the freezes and phases and controls. Here is his reply:

By Roger Blough
Co- Chairman, The Business Roundtable

NEW YORK--- A strange thing happened on the way to the forum. For once the forum agreed--- on decontrol of wages and prices.

Some weeks ago in conference with Secretary George Shultz and Cost of Living Council Director John Dunlop, five labor leaders and five business leaders recommended:

"The only way to extricate the country from wage and price controls is to resolve firmly to phase them out. We believe all wage and price controls should be eliminated as soon as possible this year."

Not only did Cost of Living Council advisers Paul Hall, Frank Fitzsimmons, I. W. Abel, Leonard Woodcock, and George Meany, from the labor side, so recommend, but, from the business side, Jim Roche, Heath Larry, Ed Carter, Walter Wriston, and Steve Bechtel, Jr., made it a joint recommendation.

In spite of prior positions and all that had been said before about the need for controls and lack of equity in controls, these individuals not only joined in the recommendation but signed a statement to that effect.

Why write about decontrol at a time when Phase IV is just getting under way?

Because controls have led farmers to slaughter their cows instead of raising calves. They have caused the destruction of pregnant sows and of newly hatched chicks. These actions, among many others, can hardly be said to help anyone, especially the consumer.

When Victor Riesel, that communicator extraordinary in the public interest, asked me to write a guest column for him, we both had in mind something quite different than decontrol. But this subject is so importantly imminent that reassessing it here should, I believe, be of general interest.

One of the most fortunate characteristics of the American people is that sooner or later they realize the disadvantages of a controlled economy. They tire of controls and phase them out fast. This happened after World War II and also after the Korean conflict. It began to happen again toward the end of 1972 and was one of the inducing reasons for adopting less restrictive controls in the form of Phase III in January of this year.

Those who claim Phase III was a failure should reexamine the record. It is true that prices, largely uncontrolled prices of farm products, rose, causing rapid rises at the food store consumer level. It is also true that housewives, who are practical economists in their role of consumers, reacted strongly, blaming everything and everybody in sight, especially their representatives in Congress and the administration.

It is also true that hourly wage costs have been rising far faster than productivity could be increased and this put pressure on prices.

So Congressmen, first the Democrats and then the Republicans, demanded a "freeze" and got it.

The "freeze" soon proved to create more havoc than useful results. Even the consumer purchasers of food gave ground quickly after seeing the results of tampering with the very broad and very intricate operation of our nation's sensitive production and marketing system--especially when faced with shortages.

Self- education is a rugged process and economic self-education is no exception. Let it be said that one of the great by- products of the last two years of controls is the education of the populace.

But now we have Phase IV, at least for a time. And many members of Congress have begun to question the whole bickering mess that comes with controls. It is this observer's thought that Congressmen on the whole reflect what they hear from back home, whether it be back home on the farm, or the big city, or the thousands of small towns all over the country.

It is also this observer's view that (1) formal controls are not only unnecessary in peacetime but really do much more harm than good, and (2) broad public opinion determines the timing of controls and decontrols--- hence this piece.

But what to do about inflation? Can't controls cope with inflation, and if not what can?

Controls cannot cope with inflation. In the minds of many citizens, inflation, always evidenced by higher prices, is caused by higher prices. As I indicated some time ago, "Higher prices cause inflation like wet streets cause rain."

The real answer is that higher costs cause inflation. As George Terbough says, "Prices float above a bed of costs, with a relatively thin margin of profit between."

And how do we get the higher costs? From a number of sources. One, the cost of an hour or a day of work. Personal service cost is our most universal cost. The more rapidly employment costs go up in excess of productivity gains, the more inflation we will have.

Second, costs of all forms of government or government services. Take an example. Who will pay for a new or increased social benefit or for the recent increase in Post Office Employees' compensation--- whether or not that pay increase of about 16 per cent in two years is justified? Clearly the people who pay taxes or who use the postal service will pay. It becomes a part of their costs.

One of the sure ways to increase inflation is to badger Congress to spend more on public projects--- many of which are undoubtedly justified. But the bill must be paid by consumers--- in this case, the taxpayers.

There is much said about monetary policy, an important anti- inflation tool, and about fiscal policy including higher taxes. But increased taxation to finance more expenditures has its limitations as an answer to containing inflation--- especially in a country now paying over one- third of its income for federal, state, and local taxes.

And letting the government borrow the money, which is what we have been doing, is no solution. Large deficits only aggravate the problem.

So one of the sure ways to hold down inflation is for Congress to hold down congressional spending.

Personally, I believe in some types of controls--- and a self- imposed discipline on congressional spending is the best place to start. This discipline is more easily said than done since something good can be said for almost any project.

Another form of "good" control is competition in the marketplace. Food prices are an example. I visit retail stores--- mostly the chains--- as often as I can. I believe most consumers purchasing in retail stores can actually see and feel competition.

If they think something costs too much they buy something else. With all the debate about government controls today, it's easy to forget that the consumer has been doing pretty well at this control business for centuries.

But the slaughtering of unborn calves and the destruction of chicks because controls make raising them unprofitable, restricts production and forces prices to rise. What is needed is more--- not less--- production of farm products, especially livestock and poultry.

Formal controls tend to increase shortages as we have seen. For this reason they tend to push prices up and cannot hold them down for long. If continued, the distortions in production, the black markets and substitutions all serve to make the controls counterproductive.

Formal wage and price controls have another failing, in addition to the production and marketplace distortions they provide. Responsible collective bargaining cannot long survive in an atmosphere of effective wage controls. I feel sure that the almost one-quarter of our 86 million working population who belong to unions want those unions to thrive. The surest way to downgrade the effectiveness of responsible unions is to have wage and price controls.

Perhaps some union demands need restraint. If so, there are better ways to restore even- handed collective bargaining than by calling for formal wage and price controls in the supposed interest of holding down inflation.

Coming back to our point of beginning--- to paraphrase the attitude of the Labor-Management Advisory Committee: Let us firmly resolve that the next phase will be "Phase Out"-- and before Dec. 31 of this year. Certainly there will be some bumps and some bulges in the wage area and in prices. But rather this than the bumper crops of troubles that more and tighter controls will bring.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The People: America's Backbone

HENRY, Idaho-- Are the American people, wracked by warfare and shaken by scandal, on the brink of a national nervous breakdown?

A solemn Henry Kissinger, talking privately to friends, has warned of the danger. He wonders how long the citizenry can endure the dreary diet of disarray, human tragedy, interruption of vital tasks and all the other adverse effects of the crisis in confidence.

In the backrooms of the Senate Watergate Committee, there have been worried whispers that the public may not be able to stand many more shocks. The Watergate horror has saturated the country with scandal until millions have begun to despair. Could this develop into a national psychosis?

On flying trips around the nation, I have watched for signs of shellshock in the people I have met. I have detected an undertone of anxiety, a sense of things gone wrong, a feeling of political betrayal.

SICK OVER WATERGATE

The antique dealer in upstate New York, the hotel operator on the Florida gold coast, the ranch wife on the Idaho- Wyoming border, the Sunday School teacher in southern California-- all are sick over Watergate. Their faith in the President, their confidence in the government, their trust in the democratic processes have been jolted.

But despite the general uneasiness, America is still populated by sound, sensible, stable people who will weather the crisis. Across the land, as here in this ramshackle place called Henry, Idaho, America is still the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Henry is a shabby spot on the mountain slope, a few battered and blackened shacks that rise out of the sagebrush and quickly slump back into them. Most of the activity takes place at the city hall, post office and general store, which are located in the same one- room building.

The building, ravaged by harsh weather, with a leeward tilt from the heavy snows, looks like a relic from an old cowboy movie. It even has one of those sheer fronts that went out of style when Hoot Gibson turned in his spurs.

BULLET- HOLE PROFILE

Inside, a huge pot- bellied stove dominates the room. On the wall behind it is a battered piece of tin, with a profile of Buffalo Bill Cody in bullet holes. It took Gus Peret 210 shots to blast out the profile with his six- guns back in 1925.

The sheep herders, who come here to buy canned goods and beef jerky, like to talk about the old days. They remember when the gold mine was still operating on nearby Caribou mountain. According to local legend, two badmen hijacked 400 pounds of gold. One was shot and the other couldn't lug all the loot. He stashed it away, so the story goes, and occasional adventurers still search the rugged ravines for the treasure.

The range people are quick to spot a phony. A blowhard, puffed up with his own importance, was driving down the highway with my friend, Arcola Von Almen, when, suddenly a tire went flat. "Why don't you blow it up?" suggested Arcola sweetly.

Another friend, Roland Smith, took me to Henry by boat across a lake on the Blackfoot Indian reservation. Roland was having trouble with his legs, which are badly scarred from a gasoline fire. He has a private gas tank at his home in nearby Soda Springs. Escaping fumes were ignited by a spark from the gas pump.

SHEET OF FLAME

Suddenly his wife, Arlene, was enveloped in the blazing inferno. Ignoring the sheet of flame, Roland ran to her aid. He rolled her on the ground and covered her with dirt to smother the flames, although his own legs had caught fire and were causing intense pain.

Once he had extricated his wife and himself from the fire, he roared off in his car to the hospital. He left the fire blazing, full expecting it to consume the home he had built with loving care. But a neighbor, seeing the fire, rushed over with a fire extinguisher in time to save the house.

Such are the people who are the backbone of America. In this season of disillusion, when our national spirit is damp and bedraggled, the people can still be counted on to do the right thing.

Whether it is Roland Smith defying death to save his wife of Judge John Sirica standing up to the President. The people can handle the crisis.

FEARLESS, DEFIANT

The short, stocky Sirica, son of an Italian immigrant, has been fearless on the bench. He even defied a higher court, which ordered him to reconsider a stiff sentence against a young robber. The youth center superintendent, appearing before Sirica, pleased: "We don't consider the punitive aspect. We're interested in the man."

"So you're not concerned really with the question of punishment?" Sirica lectured him. "Don't you consider the rights of the citizens of the District of Columbia? Don't you think that nice people have rights, too?"

Whether it's an obscure young thief or the President of the United States, Judge Sirica calls the shots as he sees them. There is something comforting, after all, about the spectacle of the leaders of the mighty Executive branch dealing in trapidation with a federal judge.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Ever wonder why a snake keeps darting its tongue in and out? It is because its tongue serves it as a kind of nose to let it know when it is near food. Airborne particles land on the forked tongue which carries them back to the rear of the mouth where a chemical analyzer tells the snake, "Yep, that's edible."

It isn't easy to be a soothsayer. In 1900 a writer in the New York Times prophesied the advent of the automobile would solve the parking problem, because an auto occupied less space at the curb than a horse and wagon.

Parents often think they can stimulate their child's intellectual growth by buying socalled educational toys. Some child study experts, however, feel this is largely a waste of money. "The presence of such toys will not make the infant a genius anymore than their absence will make him an imbecile," says David Elkind, University of Rochester psychologist.

What can be done to prevent snoring, which afflicts 25 million Americans and annoys at least that many more? If it is caused by a nose blockage or nasal congestion, minor surgery or an antihistamine remedy can provide relief. Getting the offender to sleep on his face or side helps, as most people snore while sleeping on their backs. Snoring is also caused by overwork, fatigue, obesity, drinking, and general poor health.

Many profit: Who owns America? Well, more than 32½ million persons now own stock in U.S. corporations.

Women with arms: American women are getting increasingly handy with guns. An estimated 1½ million now take part in trap, skeet, rifle and pistol target shooting. In some meets they have outshot all male competitors.

Exit lines: Dying, Madame de Stael, said, "I have loved God, my father, and liberty." Lord Chief Justice Tenterden of England said, "Gentlemen of the jury, you may retire." Edgar Allan Poe exclaimed, "Lord, help my soul!" Mohammed, the religious prophet, said, "O Allah! Pardon my sins. Yes, I come."

Worth remembering: "Happiness is that peculiar sensation you acquire when you are too busy to be miserable."

Readers 'defend' housewife on pills

Dear Ann Landers: Tha letter from the pot- smoking housewife was ridiculous. You obviously print the letters that support your outmoded philosophy and deep- rooted prejudices. I'll bet anything the woman who wrote was goofy before she ever saw a marijuana cigaret.

Within the last three years I've had a fourth child, a traumatic divorce, a mental breakdown, shock treatments and a hysterectomy.

Today I'm back to work as a registered nurse on a full-time basis.

I was strung out from pills and switched to pot five years ago with my doctor's approval. People should be able to choose their crutch and the government should mind its own business. Print this one--- if you dare.--- Not Stoned, Just Feeling Good

Dear Lady: It probably escaped your notice that you have been on pot for five years, and during that time you have had a "traumatic divorce, a mental breakdown and shock treatments." I am not suggesting the situations are in any way related, but you should be willing to concede that the pot didn't relax you sufficiently to be of significant help.

As for the doctor's O.K., I am not surprised. Almost any doctor would prefer to have his patient on pot than pills. (Pill-poppers are harder to unhook than heroin addicts.)

So the government should mind its own business? The physical and emotional well-being of people ARE the government's business. Sick or spaced- out citizens contribute nothing to the economy, or to the cultural, scientific or spiritual growth of a nation.

Dear Square Annie Baby: Your advice to the housewife who smoked dope was a gas. How can you give advice on something you know nothing about? In order to tell people what pot does to them, you should be willing to experience it firsthand. I'll meet you any time, any place, and we'll give it a fair try TOGETHER, in the name of research. Are you game?-- Don't Knock It Till You've Tried It

Dear Don't: No, I'm not "game." First, it's against the law and second I have no idea what pot would do to a person who has never had a drink or smoked a cigaret. I need all the brains I have. I can't afford to fry what few I have with crazy experiments. I can think of many lessons in life I am willing to learn through someone else's experience--- and this is one of them.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a two- bit, nothing problem compared with many you receive, but it can be very upsetting and it has ruined many evenings for me.

When I entertain, one long-time woman friend insists on "helping" by coming into the kitchen, scraping all the plates and stacking them. I cannot keep her out, short of resorting to actual violence.

I have tried to explain that after everyone has left I prefer to take care of the dishes in my own way. I am careful about my silverware, and it galls me the way she throws it all in a heap. I especially don't care for the job of scraping off the bottoms of the plates after she has stacked one on top of the other without removing the leftover food.

What can I do to get her to take me seriously?--- Griped In Rochester

Dear Roch: The only way to deal with well- meaning but stubborn and compulsive "helpers" is to out- guts them. The very next time Helpful Hannah barrels into your kitchen, take her firmly by the elbow and usher her back to her seat with the other guests. If she returns in three minutes repeat the gesture. Do it a third time if necessary. Eventually, she'll get the message.

Shelton, Byrd married

Mr. and Mrs. James Byrd

DEXTER — Wedding vows uniting Miss Patricia Shelton and James Byrd were exchanged Aug. 4 at 7 p.m. in Southwest Nazarene Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton of Dexter, and the groom's parents are James E. Byrd and Mrs. Betty Jo Byrd of Sikeston.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Slaughter of Dexter, the bride's grandparents, and Mrs. Rose Marie Russkamp of Bertrand, grandmother of the groom.

The Rev. william Young of Raytown performed the double- ring ceremony before a chancel setting of brass arch candelabra, holding yellow tapers, accented with entwined ferns. Two pedestal arrangements of ferns and two other brass candelabras accented with fern and yellow tapers and the profile brass prie dier completed the decorations. Yellow ribbon bows marked the family pews.

A medley of wedding selections was played by Mrs. June Coffey. She played "Brian's Song" as the tapers were lit and "Let There Be Peace" as the mothers were seated. Stan McGill of Sikeston sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the nuptial blessing.

Candlelighter was Danny Shelton, brother of the bride.

Escorted to the altar and presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of white peau de ange lace and satapeau. The dress was fashioned in the traditional style with a lace bodice and Camelot sleeves. The demi- full satapeau skirt fell from the empire line and formed her chapel train. She also wore an English Tulle veil held in place by a petal- shaped headpiece of lace and satapeau.

The bride carried a cascade of white gladioli and stephanotis and white baby's breath entwined with white lace ribbon which fell from the bouquet. A detachable, large, white orchid centered the bouquet and was her going away corsage.

Crowned pearl earrings, a gift from the groom, and a necklace borrowed from a sister, complemented her attire and carried out the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue theme.

As she entered, the bride stopped to present her mother a long- stemmed red rose, and at the conclusion, she also presented her new mother- in- law a rose.

Terri Holden, maid of honor, wore a long, mint green gown of taffeta and white dotted overlay. The dress was fashioned with a scooped neckline, long sheer sleeves and a wide band at the empire waist. She carried a long- stemmed mint green mum with mint green ribbon streamers.

Bridal attendants were Diana Shelton of Dexter, sister of the bride; Shelly Sturgeon of Kennett; and Myra Byrd, of Sikeston, sister of the groom. They wore matching yellow gowns styled like the one worn by the maid of honor and carried long- stemmed yellow mums with yellow ribbon streamers.

All wore white hats with ribbons to match their dresses.

Ann Catlin of Houston, Tex., niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a matching yellow gown with short puffed sleeves. She carried an arrangement of yellow pom pom mums in a white lace basket.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt trimmed in black. The coat featured satin lapels. He also wore a black velvet bow tie and a boutonniere of stephanotis.

Attending the groom as best man was Robert Bye of Sikeston. He also wore the selected tuxedo with a mint green ruffled shirt and a boutonniere of mint green pom pom mums.

Groomsmen were Gilbert Hutchcraft, David Mulcahy and Roy Miller of Sikeston. They wore matching tuxedos with yellow ruffled shirts and boutonnieres of yellow pom pom mums.

Gary Shelton of Dexter and John Vines of Sikeston were ushers and were attired like the groomsmen.

Lloyd Gene Shelton, brother of the bride, was ringbearer and wore a matching tuxedo with yellow ruffled shirt. He carried a white lace and satin pillow.

Mrs. Shelton selected for her daughter's wedding a floor- length dress of navy blue polyester knit with white lace. She wore navy and white accessories and wore a corsage of white feathered mums.

Mrs. Byrd wore a mint green floor- length dress with matching accessories and a white feathered mum corsage.

Miss Cindy Coffeey attended the guestbook. She was attired in a yellow gown with short puffed sleeves and wore a corsage of yellow pom pom mums.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white, floor- length, tulle cloth with white underlay accented with runners of yellow ribbon and bows.

The three- tiered wedding cake, topped with an arrangement of small, yellow, pom pom mums and baby's breath, centered the table. At one end was a crystal punch bowl and at the other was a silver tea and coffee service. On each side of the cake were crystal candelabra with yellow tapers and compotes of nuts and mints.

Mrs. Frank Bowman, Mrs. Elmer Swallows, Mrs. Gary Shelton and Mrs. Demp Holden served.

The gift table was covered also in white and held two silver trays with bags of yellow and mint green rice. Miss Charlotte Triplett of Dexter presided at the gift table.

The couple lives at 224 Kinder Drive, Sikeston.

Mrs. Betty Jo Byrd of Sikeston, Mrs. Phillis Bliesner of Boston, Mass., Mrs. Ruth Catlin and Miss Sharon Byrd of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Diane Turner of Birmingham, Ala., were hostesses for the rehearsal dinner Aug. 3 at the church,

Pre- nuptial parties include those given by Mrs. Gary Shelton and Diana Shelton June 30, a household shower given July 10 by ladies of First Church of the Nazarene in Sikeston and a household shower given by ladies of Southwest Nazarene Church of Dexter on July 12.

TWO OF A RARE KIND, Babe Ruth, left, and Hank Aaron are far and away the most prolific home run hitters in baseball history and Aaron appears certain to pass Ruth's career total.

Aaron bombs away

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Labor Day and Hank Aaron worked over the San Diego Padres.

Aaron walloped two homers...No. 707 and No. 708 in his pursuit of Babe Ruth's alltime baseball career record of 714. He is six away from Ruth's mark and the Braves have 23 games to play, meaning it will be an awfully interesting September for Atlanta.

The two homers by Aaron and three others by Marty Perez, Paul Casanova and Darrell Evans helped the Braves to a 73 decision over San Diego, totally meaningless for two teams stuck at the bottom of the National League's West Division.

In more important action at the top of the division, Cincinnati moved into a tie for first place with Los Angeles by overtaking Houston 4-3 while the Dodgers blew a seven-run lead and lost 11-8 to the San Francisco Giants.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis maintained its one-game lead over Pittsburgh in the East Division, splitting a doubleheader with the Pirates. The Cardinals dropped the first game 5-4 in 13 innings but bounced back to take the nightcap, 8-3. In other games, Montreal defeated Montreal 5-2 and New York split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 5-0 before losing 6-3.

Can Aaron make it to 714 this year? Well, in Atlanta's last 17 games, the 39-year-old slugger has hit seven homers and driven in 21 runs, an amazing pace that would carry him past Ruth this month if he can maintain it. But, of course, he must play and that could be a problem.

"I probably won't play more than half of our remaining games," said Aaron. "It's possible. It can happen. But I'm not going to play that much more this season. No day games and I'll probably lay off some of the night games."

Atlanta has five day games and 18 night games remaining this season.

Rookie Ken Griffey delivered a pinch single, driving in his first two runs in the major leagues and lifting Cincinnati to its come-from-behind victory over Houston. The decision left the Reds in a tie with LA for the NL West lead.

Giants 11, Dodgers 8

Bobby Bonds smashed a ninth inning grand slam, climaxing a huge San Francisco comeback that gave the Giants their 11-8 victory over Los Angeles. It was San Francisco's fourth straight victory and left the Giants only five games behind in the West.

Pirates 5-3, Cardinals 4-8

Richie Hebner's 13th inning inside-the-park homer lifted Pittsburgh to its 5-4 first game victory over St. Louis. That triumph gave the Pirates first place in the East by percentage points.

Then St. Louis regained the top spot by copping the second game, 8-3 as Bernie Carbo, Ted Sizemore and Lou Brock drove in two runs apiece.

Expos 5, Cubs 2

Steve Renko drove in two runs with a double and blanked Chicago for eight innings, pitching and batting Montreal to a 52 decision over the Cubs.

Mets 5-3, Phillies 0-6

Jerry Koosman tossed a seven-hitter and Ted Martinez ripped four hits including a homer to drive in four runs as the New York Mets defeated Philadelphia 5-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Phillies bounced back to gain the split 6-3 with Dick Ruthven, making his first appearance after a month-long bout with monucleosis, getting late inning help from Mac Scarce to nail down the victory.

—— American League scores: California 3, Oakland 1; Minnesota 11, Kansas City 5; New York 4, Detroit 3; Chicago 8, Texas 7 in the first game and Chicago 5, Texas 2 in the second; Baltimore 13, Boston 8 in the first game and Boston 9, Baltimore 8 in the second; and Milwaukee 13.

Pitcher triples in AL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Aaron hit plenty of home runs for the Milwaukee Braves and slammed two more for the Atlanta Braves Monday night but the most unique batting feat of the 1973 baseball season may have been a mere triple earlier in the day by a present-day Milwaukee Brewer with the non-household name of Eduardo Rodriguez.

It came in the eighth inning of the first game of a meaningless doubleheader between the Brewers and the Cleveland Indians and was the first hit by an American League pitcher in this year of the designated hitter.

Rodriguez was the fourth pitcher to bat. Previously, Chicago's Cy Acosta and Oakland's Rollie Fingers struck out and Milwaukee's Chris Short reached base on catcher's interference. Rodriguez' triple thus gave the league's hurlers a collective batting average of .333. Who needs designated hitters anyway?

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's lost to the California Angels 3-1 but maintained their 3½-game lead over Kansas City in the West Division when the Minnesota Twins erupted for seven runs in the ninth inning and beat the Royals 11-5.

In the East, the Baltimore Orioles were about to open a commanding eight-game bulge over Boston when the Red Sox rallied for seven runs in the eighth inning and a 9-8 triumph in the second part of a daynight doubleheader. The win left the Bosox six games out since Baltimore won the day game 13-8.

In other action, the New York Yankees edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox took two from the Texas Rangers 8-7 in 11 innings and 52.

Angels 3, A's 1

California's Nolan Ryan, who pitched a one-hitter in his last start and two no-hitters earlier in the season, fired a three-hitter and struck out 12 A's to push his major league-leading total to 325, 57 short of Sandy Koufax' one-season record.

Twins 11, Royals 5

Paul Schaal's homer gave the Royals a 5-4 lead in the eighth inning but pinch hitter Rich Reese delivered a game-tying single in the ninth and scored on Eric Soderholm's double. Before the inning was over, Larry Hisle doubled Soderholm across, Rod Carew laced an RBI single and Bob Darwin hammered a three-run homer.

Orioles 13-8, Red Sox 8-9

Danny Cater's two-run pinch single on which Tommy Harper scored from first base capped Boston's seven-run rally. All the runs—two came on a double by Mario Guerrero—were unearned thanks to a pair of errors by Baltimore second baseman Bobby Grich.

Earl Williams drove in five runs for Baltimore with a grand slam homer and a solo shot. The Orioles won the wild opener as Paul Blair drilled a pair of three-run homers, one inside the park, and Williams hit another solo blast.

Yankees 4, Tigers 3

Thurman Munson's second homer of the game, a two-run shot in the eighth inning following Joe Coleman's two-out walk to Roy White, lifted the Yankees to only their second victory in 12 games.

White Sox 8-5, Rangers 7-2

Eddie Leon's leadoff double and an RBI single by Chuck Brinkman triggered a three-run Chicago rally in the seventh inning of the nightcap that broke a 2-2 tie. The Sox won the opener as Carlos May drove in five runs.

ARLINGTON, Tex. — Joe Burke, vice president and general manager of the Texas Rangers, resigned and was succeeded by Danny O.Brien.

Pack loses QB

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I was not trying to be a tough guy," said Jim Del Gaizo. "Believe me, I am as yellow as they come."

Del Gaizo, the Green Bay Packers' newly acquired quarterback, was wistfully trying to explain Monday the reason for the rib injury he received in Saturday night's National Football League exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Steelers that will sideline him for at least two weeks.

Del Gaizo, making his first start for Green Bay after being acquired from Miami recently, completed seven of 16 passes for 76 yards and had the Packers in front 16-7 in the second quarter when he was forced out of the game with cracked ribs.

The left-handed passer said his ribs were unprotected when he was tackled by a Green Bay defender, because he was not wearing rib pads. "I would have been okay if I had been wearing pads," he said.

With Del Gaizo out, Green Bay Coach Dan Devine said he was uncertain whether Scott Hunter or Jerry Tagge would start at quarterback in Saturday's final pre-season game against Cincinnati.

When Del Gaizo departed from the game against Pittsburgh, he was replaced by Hunter, and the Packers wound up losing 30-22.

"The coaching staff is more concerned with areas other than quarterbacking that cost us the game," said a concerned Devine. "Scott did his job very well."

Hunter completed only four of 11 passes for 36 yards.

Injuries also were a major concern of other NFL teams Monday.

The San Francisco 49ers received bad news—that running back Vic Washington, hampered by a cracked kneecap, and wide receiver Terry Beasley, suffering from a dislocated shoulder, would not be ready for the season opener Sept. 16 against Miami.

The New York Giants learned that offensive tackle John Hill would be sidelined two weeks after suffering a badly sprained right ankle in last Saturday's 42-21 rout over Philadelphia. Other Giants hurt were linebacker Brad Van Pelt, with a pulled groin muscle, and guard Joe Taffoni, with knee and shoulder ailments.

There also were several trades Monday. Buffalo dealt veteran linebacker Mike Stratton to San Diego for a draft choice. Pittsburgh sent safety Ralph Anderson to New England for a 1974 draft pick, and San Francisco traded wide receiver Jubilee Dunbar to New Orleans for another draft selection.

Big Eight football coaches took the term Labor Day literally Monday, sending their charges through one, and in many cases, two workouts.

The University of Kansas held two workouts geared toward the Sept. 15 opener with Washington State. The afternoon session was moved to Memorial Stadium's artificial turf due to wet grounds. In the morning the club looked at film of Saturday's scrimmage, then went out to correct the mistakes.

Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder continued to experiment Monday in an effort to strengthen the Buffs' defensive line. He switeched linebackers Mike Metoyer and Gary Campbell to the defensive end positions, and moved Bob Simpson from middle guard to defensive tackle because of injuries to Mark Conney, Jeff Turcotte and Mark Sens.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio promoted two freshmen to the varsity prior to a soggy workout Monday. Slotback Steve Mally of Chicago and wide receiver Pete Blake of Bridgeton, Mo., were moved up due to injuries to two-year letterman slotback Chuck Link, and wide receivers Henry Marshall and Mark Miller. Sophomore tailback Bill Marx was forced to quit the workout early with what appeared to be a fractured rib.

At Ames, tailback Mike Strachan of Iowa State, the Big Eight's leading ground gainer last season, was injured during the first of two workouts Monday. Coach Earle Bruce said Strachan should be back to par in "a couple of days" after sustaining a minor leg injury.

The question at Lincoln remains whether quarterback Dave Humm will be in shape for Saturday's opener with UCLA. Humm sat out Saturday's last preseason scrimmage with strained knee ligaments but joined teammates for a two-hour workout Monday. Coach Tom Osborne said Humm's timing seemed to be okay on handoffs but he still couldn't get back to set up properly on passing plays. Osborne said he had hoped Humm's recovery would have been further along after a weekend of rest.

The Oklahoma State Cowboys worked out twice Monday in drizzling rain. Captains were elected for the year, with Texas senior Cleveland Vann chosen team captain, senior Doug Tarrant defensive captain and Brent Blackman and George Palmer offensive captains.

Kansas State went through a two-hour morning workout, then took the remainder of the day off. Coach Vance Gibson took note of 13 fumbles in Saturday's game-type scrimmage. He also complained the offensive line was not coming off the ball fast enough.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer announced starting offensive right guard Terry Webb is joining former split end Bill Brooks at the tight end spot. John Carroll, the expected starter, is out indefinitely with a knee injury. Switzer said Brooks is a threat for the Sooners at tight end and Webb can catch the ball, too. Meanwhile, minor injuries kept Steve Davis and Tinker Owens out of practice Monday.

Bird season

Missouri's bird hunting season has begun and will run until the deer season takes over in mid- November.

The season for doves and rails began last Saturday.

The teal season opens next Saturday, running for eight days with a daily bag of four and possession limit of eight.

Woodcocks can be hunted Oct. 1. The duck and geese season open Nov. 1 and the pheasant season opens Nov. 10.

The shooting hours will be from sunrise to sunset.

Title game

Budweiser and Ziegenhorn Insurance square off in the championship game of the Sikeston Fast Pitch Softball Association tonight at city park.

Ziegenhorn is undefeated in the event while the Buds have lost one, that coming at the hands of Ziegenhorn by one run.

Cards hold lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Virdon of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals both anticipate the tightest stretch run in the five-year history of the National League East.

The two opposing managers made a flurry of moves in a doubleheader Monday, using a total of 61 players in six hours of competition under an oppressively hot sun.

Yet by day's end they had to settle for a split, and the Cardinals maintained their slim onegame edge over Pittsburgh in the division race.

"It looks like it will be tight all the way," Schoendienst noted after St. Louis won the second game 8-3.

"There's a chance somebody could break it open," he added between slow sips on a cold beer. "I'd like to see us to it."

Virdon, whose club won the first game 5-4 in 13 innings on an inside-the-park homer by Richie Hebner, took an almost identical stance.

"I feel the race will go all the way," noted Virdon, "but if somebody does pull away, I hope it's us."

In the first game, the Pirates displayed the kind of late-inning brilliance that carried them to three straight division titles, but the Cardinals bounced back from the crushing loss.

"It's easy to get down when you loose a game like that," said Cardinal catcher Ted Simmons, who played both games and rapped six hits.

"But when we got into the locker room between games were were all trying to keep each other going," Simmons noted as he peeled off his dustcaked socks.

"This is the closest I've ever been to a division title," he added, "and I'm at the point now where I'm willing to sacrifice everything to get there."

Simmons watched helplessly in the first game as Hebner clouted a knuckleball off Cardinal reliver Eddie Fisher.

"I thought it was gone," Simmons acknowledged. "I was ready to go back to the dugout, but I figured I'd stay and make sure he touched home plate."

The ball wasn't gone, and it bounced off the wall in right as outfielder Jose Cruz leaped in a vain effort to make the catch.

Cruz hustled after the ball and groped frantically, but in his haste he bobbled it several times.

Hebner never looked back and Pirate third base Coach Bill Mazeroski waved him home.

I've never seen Max so excited in the five years I've known him, so I knew something was going on," Hebner noted.

Hebner scored standing up.

The Pirates had trailed 3-1 into the eighth inning of the first game before Al Oliver and Willie Stargell belted back-toback homers to put them ahead 4-3.

Oliver's two-run clout followed a single by Dave Parker, who had four hits in the game, and Stargell added his 37th homer of the season.

The belts chased Cardinal starter Reggie Cleveland, but St. Louis sent the game into extra innings with a run in the ninth off Pirate reliever Ramon Herandez.

"It was tough to come back and then get beat like that," said Cardinal leftfielder Lou Brock, who had five hits and four stolen bases on the afternoon, "but we couldn't let it get us down."

Brock, Ted Sizemore and Bernie Carbo drove in two runs each for the Cardinals as they romped to a 8-3 win in the second game.

St. Louis broke the game open with six runs in the fourth inning off Pirate starting pitcher Luke Walker.

Rennie Stennett, Manyy Saguillen and Bob Robertson all hit solo homers for Pittsburgh, while Carbo countered with a bases empty homerun for the Cardinals.

The Pirates and Cardinals meet again tonight in the ird game of their four-game series.

Sports Briefs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves hit the 707th and 708th home runs of his major league baseball career Monday night against the San Diego Padres and moved within six of Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

Aaron's two homers — his 34th and 35th of the season did, however, tie him with another Ruth record- most homers in one league. Ruth hit 708 homers in the American League and six in the National League. Aaron has hit all of his homers in the National League.

Martin polite

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Martin, fired Sunday as manager of the Detroit Tigers, hinted Monday he might make some legal maneuvers in an effort to recoup from the disastrous events that befell him over the Labor Day weekend.

Martin, canned by General Manager Jim Campbell, has been extra polite and seems extremely consicentious in his few public statements after the firing.

But in one television interview late Monday the 45- year old firebrand said somewhat testily:

"I was suspended without hearing. I haven't been able to go through any democratic process. You're supposed to be innocent until proven guilty.

"I plan to talk to some people who are knowledgeable about the law and then decide what to do."

In the morning on his daily radio show, for which he is reportedly paid $300 a week, he declined to be too critical of the Tiger front office because "firing salvos would make it sound like sour grapes."

Except for the few broadcast comments, Martin has made himself unavailable to most newsmen since Campbell gave him the axe via telephone about 12:30 p.m., EDT, Sunday.

Campbell followed that up Monday by firing pitching coach Art Fowler and bullpen coach Charlie Silvera, both close friends of Martin who coached under him at Minnesota in 1969.

Trojans No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southern California Trojans are not celebrating the fact that they have been ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press' pre-season poll of major college football teams.

"Why shout that we're No. 1," junior linebacker Richard Wood said after the Trojans had been selected Saturday to repeat as national champions. "We KNOW we're No. 1."

"At least we"ll have been No. 1 at one point of the season," said a more cautious John McKay, the Trojans' head coach.

In the 1973 pre-season poll, they received 55 of 63 firstplace votes and a total of 1,238 points from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Ohio State was a distant second with two first-place nominations and 896 points. Texas, with one first-place vote, was third with 785 points. Fourthplace Nebraska and fifth-ranked Michigan each collected two first-place ballots. Alabama was sixth and Penn State, with the remaining first-place vote, finished seventh.

Completing the Top Ten were Notre Dame, eighth; Tennessee, ninth, and UCLA.

Teal season

JEFFERSON CITY — Despite summertime conditions, the opening round of the 1973 duck season is nearly on Missouri hunters.

The early teal season opens Sept. 8, runs through Sept. 16, with a daily bag of four and possession limit of eight on the early- migrating little ducks.

Hunters must have a valid hunting permit and a waterfowl stamp for 1973. Only bluewing, greenwing and cinnamon teal will be legal. Shooting hours will be sunrise to sunset.

SPORTS

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles maintained their six-game lead over Boston in the American League's East Division, splitting a day- night doubleheader with the Red Sox Monday. Paul Blair smashed a pair of three- run homers, powering the Orioles to a 13-8 victory in the opener. The Red Sox rallied with seven runs - the last two on Danny Cater's pinch single - in the eighth inning and took the nightcap 9-8.

Oakland remained 3½ games ahead of Kansas City in the AL West as both teams lost. California's Nolan Ryan stopped the A's 3-1 on three hits and 12 strikeouts, and Minnesota rallied for seven runs in the ninth and overtook Kansas City 11-5.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Billy Casper came out of a tightly bunched field Monday with a final- round 64 and scored a one- stroke victory over Bruce Devlin in the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.- Great Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

Casper's triumph was his fourth in this tourney and his second in his last three starts. He recently won the Western Open in Chicago.

FORREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — Billie Jean King, the top- ranked woman tennis player in the world, was the victim of onyof the mos unusual upsets in the history of the U. S. Open Championships Monday. Mrs. King, suffering from the intense heat, fatigue and influenze, had to default to Julie Heldman in the third set of their match. The score was 3-6, 6-4, 4-1.

Among the men's winners were Vijay Amritraj, John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall and Jimmy Connors.

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — Cale Yarborough scored his first victory in three years and David Pearson became auto racing's fifth $1 million career winner in the Southern 500 stock car race Monday.

PHILADELPHIA — Straight Clark won the U. S. Senior Grass Court Tennis Championship, defeating Gardner Mulloy of Miami 6-3, 6-4.
